

Nervous Prostration

And Dyspepsia in its worst form pulled me down until I could not get up. I tried all sorts of medicine, but it did not seem to do me any good. I had used two bottles of Hood's Pills and I was able to get up and feel a thousand times better. My friends are surprised to see such a change. Hood's Pills are a wonderful medicine. B. C. The Greatest Medical Discovery of the Age.

KENNEDY'S MEDICAL DISCOVERY.

DONALD KENNEDY, OF ROXBURY, MASS.

Has discovered in one of our common pasture weeds a remedy that cures every kind of Humor, from the worst Scrofula down to a common Pimple. He has tried it in over eleven hundred cases, and never failed except in two cases (both of them humors). He has now in his possession over two hundred certificates of its value, all within twenty miles of Boston. A benefit is always experienced from the first bottle, and a perfect cure is warranted when the right quantity is taken. When the lungs are affected it causes shooting pains, like needles passing through them; the same with the Liver or Bowels. This is caused by the ducts being stopped, and always disappears in a week after taking it. If the stomach is foul or bilious it will cause queasiness and feelings at first. No change of diet ever necessary. Eat the best you can get, and enough of it. Dose, one tablet with water at bedtime, and read the Label.

COMING REFORMS.

The Democratic Administration Will Form Its Duty Faithfully and Well.

Ever since the crushing defeat inflicted on McKinleyism last fall a few journals have been insisting that the democratic party is bound by its platform and pledges and its commission from the people to an immediate reform of the tariff according to the extreme principles of free trade. It is "soundness" that these same journals are willing to purchase for over a million dollars, and they will, whether republican or democratic, have heretofore been stiff protectionists and persistent opponents of the doctrine that the tariff is our sole defense against industrial severity and the pauperizing of American labor.

Why this sudden change of heart? Is it the result of a genuine conversion, or is it a mere tactical maneuver? The democratic party is not so stupid as to believe that it can win the election by a mere tactical maneuver. It is a tactical maneuver, and it is a tactical maneuver.

It understands that the best and the only way under free government to protect labor is to free from taxation the materials with which it works. It will strive to place the burdens where there is most strength to bear them and where they will weigh most lightly on the production and trade of the country.

POLITICAL STUPIDITY.

Pet Superstitions of Political Republicans

There is a good deal of solid, veritable stupidity in politicians of all parties, despite the progress that has been made in the last dozen years. Gov. McKinley, for instance, has learned nothing by his experiences since he was chairman of the committee of ways and means in the house of representatives. He has started in on his long and tedious canvass of the state of Ohio, on the lines that he has followed to defeat over and over again these days of '97 and '98. He still will have it that his tariff is not only beneficial but popular, that it must not be changed except in the direction of higher protection, that all the ills the body politic is heir to are due to the democratic party, and that the larger part of the voters of the United States are little better than fools led by a little better man knaves.

Like Mr. Beecher's dog, who barked himself to a state of exhaustion at the mouth of the hole from which the woodchuck had long before escaped, the governor's voice gives out the same vain, monotonous notes, and will continue to do so until November.

On the other hand, in the democratic party there is a little faction of disgruntled politicians, who set out some eight years ago with the notion that the American people would never tolerate democracy unless it was thickly veiled in protectionist notions. They have seen protectionist notions carried out to their logical conclusions by the republican party, they have seen them rejected at a national election which, for the first time in a third of a century, placed the democratic party in power in every branch of the national government, and they have seen Mr. Cleveland's manly honesty and candor approved by the most striking popular victory won by any presidential candidate since the war.

But while politicians, whose business it is to know what the people really wish, manifest this persistent stupidity, the great body of the people of the United States are guided by common sense. Just now they are not worrying themselves much about protective tariff legislation, and still less about partisan politics. The future is a little doubtful to all, and to some gloomy. There is time enough to think of legislation when congress meets, and tariff politics can wait even longer.

But when occasion arises it will be found that public opinion is definitely settled as to two things—one, that the merely protective element shall be cleaned out of the tariff as rapidly and thoroughly as circumstances will permit, and the other, that the requirements of revenue shall be met by other means.

And for the things they will trust the president and congress. — N. Y. Times.

FASHION LETTER.

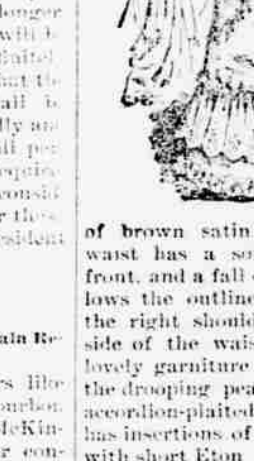

Summer Resort Materials and Costumes—Dainty Afternoon Dresses—Blossoms and Silk Waists.

Special New York Correspondence. Lawn, batiste and dimity, linen duck, French zephyr, gingham, pique and chambray are the materials most favored for day gowns at all the fashionable summer resorts. Many of these are made with unlined round waists, gathered skirts, also unlined, but made with a view of wearing pretty silk or batiste waists and petticoats beneath them. The dress skirts are full in the back and slightly gathered on the front and sides. Skirts four yards wide are the average, though very many are made both much wider at the bottom and narrower at the top. Very stylish costumes of pale yellow linen duck figured with tiny dots are made with skirts full and untrimmied and completed by Eton jackets turned back with revers that are finished with rows of very narrow black velvet ribbon, which also shows on the deep collar and a portion of the skirt sleeves. There is a girle likewise trimmed, and the hat or veil is of yellow Neapolitan braid or Leghorn, trimmed with Isabella roses and black velvet loops.

Very simple and charming also are some of the afternoon dresses made of grayish green, pale russet brown, violet or dove-colored crepon trimmed with fern guipure lace and satin ribbon rosettes. One in golden brown is made with double skirts, bordered with rows of brown satin ribbon. The round waist has a softly-folded serpentine front, and a fall of rich cream lace follows the outline of the drapery, from the right shoulder to the left, and down the side of the skirt. Frills of the same lovely material show at the elbow of the drooping pear-shaped sleeves. An accordion-plaited skirt of scarlet crepon has insertions of Spanish guipure lace, with short Eton jackets and deep cuffs to match.

Striped silk batiste with silk dots on every alternate stripe make lovely gowns for summer dances, as also do the beautiful flowered Pompadour toilets with colors not at all proscribed, but in faint shades like those in Chinese silks. A fabric imported by tailors for dress summer uses is a new variety of homespun of pure wool, as thin and light as grenadine and in inch stripes of white and a color—blue, tan, stem-green, gray, etc. This soft wool is made up over rustling taffeta silk, and has a belted vest, Zouave jacket, full sleeves and a flaring gored skirt. The only trimmings in a girle, revers, collar and cuffs of sash the color of the stripe. The rage for blouses and silk waists was never greater than now. They are made suitable in style and fabric for nearly every occasion and grade from the inexpensive models of percale, linen, striped and dotted French lawn, chambray, etc., up to those of striped taffeta, surah and foulard for more dressy uses, ending with charming waists of crepon, lace, flowered silk tulle and beaded summer satin and bengaline for full-dress wear.

Tartan silk blouses are worn on the beach with skirts of hop sacking, serge and seersucker cloth and pretty waists of pink or blue Holland are tucked to form a yoke and have sailor collars and trims trimmed with finest linen lace. Sailor hats accompany all-day made with a blouse or tulle waist. Add to this trim but a pair of soft russet shoes, a pair of chambray gloves, the "wash" once and again, and the summer girl of '98 is ready for the season. — KATE DUNHAM.

DRIDGELS OF SCIENCE. The geological center of the United States territory is British America, four hundred and twenty miles north of the Montana line. The health department of Berlin reports that the juice of the lemon and orange, or the acid it contains, is fatal to the bacilli of cholera. Those who use it freely are not subject to attacks of the disease.

Washings which are poured into it. It has induced dermal diseases because of the influence of rainfalls, evaporations, etc., and would become stagnant but for the working of the great ocean arteries—the currents. The name of "godfather" has been given to a singular appearance frequently witnessed after sunset or just before sunrise. It may be seen at all seasons of the year in low latitudes, and is obviously due to illuminated matter surrounding the sun.

It is of course a discovery of a year or two ago of an invisible third orb about which the star Aldebaran and its dark complex revolve. It is interesting to know that the late William Ferrel, the eminent meteorologist, suggested in 1855 the existence of such a body.

KNOWLEDGE IN SMALL DOSES. The first permanent settlement in New Jersey was made at Elizabethtown in 1674. Down to the days of Apelles, Greeks knew but four colors—white, red, yellow and black. The dining-room of the Campana, the new London steamer, is 100 by 64 feet, and seats 420 persons. The average weight of adult Bostonians of both sexes is only 133 pounds. Western people average six pounds heavier.
